

1945, Roosevelt is dead and the end of World War Two is nigh. The infamous Gulag Rats have a new commander. The Marshal has finally won Stalin's favour and now he must lead the desperate battalion of traitors, criminals and perverts in the race to reach Warsaw before the Polish revolt and ruin Russian plans to "liberate" them. Punishment Battalion 333 storms through Eastern Poland, fighting a three-sided war: against the fanatical Germans of the SS, against the Polish nationalists who are fighting for time, and against Kaminsky's renegade Ukrainians. But as the holocaust of the Eastern Front gathers momentum the Marshal must decide just how expendable the Gulag Rats really are...? Blood on the Baltic is a gripping Second World War thriller from master of the genre Charles Whiting. It was originally published under the pen name K. N. Kostov. With nearly 300 books under his belt, Charles Whiting was one of the most prolific writers of his time. His best-known books were published under the name Leo Kessler and featured the Assault Regiment Wotan, Hitler's hand-picked SS battle group. They include The Valley of the Assassins, Schirmer's Headhunters, Cauldron of Blood and Guns at Cassino. As K. N. Kostov he wrote the Punishment Battalion 333 series.
