

PLANT YOUR FEET FIRMLY is an intimate glimpse of Asian America through the eyes of an Asian American author whose voice packs the wallop of fine Kentucky Bourbon on the rocks. Through the pages of seven short stories, the reader is treated to a delicate taste of ordinary people living extraordinary lives from a cool grandpa to a grieving mother to a disillusioned husband. In a sampling, MOTHERS AND WIVES lives up to the standard of excellence set by this collection. College classmates gather for their regular dinner and drinks, all women of distinction and best buds from school, mulling over the news that one of their own is divorcing. As they share and care, there are more secrets floating around than ice in their drinks. But one member holds her betrayal close to her heart, never guessing that a casual question could derail her life and cast a naked spotlight on her own marriage. Another juicy offering, COSMETICS is the charming, funny story chronicling letters between a grandpa (No grandpa Paul for me, just grandpa!) and his granddaughter. This Starbucks coffee drinking grandfather is not just another gramps! His tongue in cheek commentaries and keen perspective of human behavior will have you laughing all day long. But the piece de resistance is PLANT YOUR FEET FIRMLY, ON TWO MOVING BOATS is a lesson in political politeness concerning Asian Americans. If COSMETICS makes you laugh, this story will make you howl told only as Marie Chow can, with humor, pathos and an uncanny understanding of the human psyche.
